This year's event, with its route put together by Historic competitor Paul Brewerton, will see a return to its base of many years, the Holiday Inn Norwich.

The route will feature quality driving tests at RAF Sculthorpe and visits to other venues, some of which have been used by the EAC in the past but others are new territory.

This year will also see something else new. The event weekend, along with the hotel and test venues will be shared with the EACS Endurance rally formerly called the Midsummer. This sharing of resources has allowed us to split the venue costs which will help keep the entry fee down without compromising the quality tests which EAC competitors of old have come to enjoy.

After receiving feedback from last year's event, the regularities will be shorter and easier, with much of the navigation by road book in very plain formats. There will also be a lunch halt at Fakenham Race Course and after the final regularity, it's back to the hotel for a hot buffet and results.

Once again this year's event will be supporting the East Anglian Air Ambulance which provides much needed emergency cover in the area. Chelmsford Motor Club contributes, with the help of competitors from its major events, approximately £2000 each year.

Please come along to Norfolk in April to experience one of the most social Historic Road Rallies there has ever been. For more information look at our web site or contact the organising team.

Entries open on Feb 9th when you can enter either on line or by good old fashioned paper and post!
